LA FOLLETTE HAS SHOWN HIS HAND TO F. E. MCGOVERN

Says He Favors Candidacy of State Senator Morris for the Governor's Nomination.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Oct. 9.—F. E. McGovern, Milwaukee, came to Madison last night to demand La Follette's support of his candidacy for the republican gubernatorial nomination. McGovern got no assurance from La Follette, but asked the Senator to admit his preference for and his hearty support of the candidacy of State Senator Morris of La Crosse. McGovern said he would soon decide whether to make the run or not.

The importance of this incident is that La Follette's position is not known and the fight will probably be between Morris and John Strang on one side with Governor Davidson on the other. It is not believed McGovern will further "butt in" to Senator La Follette's plans.

WILL UNCLE SAM STEP IN BETWEEN CHINA AND JAPAN?

Dispatches from London to Tokyo imply investigation by the U. S. in Manchurian Affairs.

SAYS BALLINGER IS NOT SATISFACTORY

LaFollette Takes Occasion to Make Direct Drive at the Secretary of the Interior.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Oct. 9.—Strong grounds are taken this week in some of La Follette's weekly magazines, which practically demands the resignation of Secretary of the Interior Ballinger as asked for by President Taft. In the promised Roosevelt policy it is to be carried out to protect our natural resources.

The president is virtually informed that it will not do to publicly put both of them on the back, when their past official records show that one favored a policy of protecting the public and the other a policy of protecting private interests. The leading editorial of these columns in part says:

"Whether or not Gifford Pinchot and Richard A. Ballinger are personally distasteful to one another is not a matter of moment to the country. Personal antagonism is not at all uncommon among men who may be enlisted in a common cause. But the fact that the chief forester and the secretary of the interior hold conflicting views with regard to the conservation of the nation's resources is of surpassing importance. Both are charged in an official way with the administration of the laws under which the natural wealth of the nation is to be conserved and developed. A clash of purpose between them raises at once a momentous national issue.

"Is there such a conflict of purpose? We are quite certain that there is. No further evidence of this than that which may be found in the public records of the two officials is necessary.

"The one gives the benefit of the doubt to the 'system'; the other to the people.

"Mr. Roosevelt speak for Gifford Pinchot. In an address before the National Editorial association, on June 10, 1907, he said:

"We have been doing everything in our power to prevent fraud upon the public land. So much for what we are trying to do in utilizing our public lands for the public; in securing the use of water, the forest, the coal, and the timber for the public, in all four movements my chief adviser, and the man first to suggest to me the courses which have actually proved so beneficial, was Mr. Gifford Pinchot, the chief of the national forest service.

Other quotations are taken from ex-President Roosevelt, wherein he outlived Mr. Pinchot for his public service contrasted with Mr. Ballinger's official acts.

FIVE TO DIE IN NEXT TWO WEEKS

QUINTET OF CHINAMEN CONDEMNED IN MASSACHUSETTS.

ELECTROCUTION PENALTY

For Murders Committed During Riots in Chinatown On Evening Of August 2, 1907.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Boston, Mass., Oct. 9.—The electric chair in the state prison in Charlestown, which has had no occupant in nearly two years, will probably be worked overtime during the next two weeks. Within that period, unless Governor Draper grants a petition for a stay of execution, the fatal current will be turned on five times and each time will mean the doom of a Chinese murderer.

The week beginning next Monday has been fixed as the time for executing Min Sing, Hon chair. It is the largest number of executions involving Chinamen that has ever taken place in this country.

The murders for which the Chinamen are to pay the death penalty were committed Aug. 2, 1907. On the evening of that date ten Chinamen, armed with large-caliber revolvers, entered Oxford place, in the heart of Boston's Chinatown, and proceeded to shoot up the street, houses and stores in the vicinity. Four Chinamen said to be members of the On Leong Tong, were killed and several were injured in the fracas.

The bloody affray was entirely unexpected. The strange Chinamen had entered the street and scattered into two and three to escape notice. One stood at the head of the narrow street and lighted a bunch of firecrackers. That was the signal to fire, and instantly shots rang out. There were cries and screams of wounded and dying. The street was half filled with the smoke of the revolvers. The murderers followed up their attack, and even went into the Chinese stores and fired at those within.

Ten Chinamen were arrested and charged with the murders. The majority of them were shown to be heinous assassins imported from Chicago, New York and other points to commit the murders. All ten were convicted and sentenced to death. The case of one was not pressed, a second of the convicted men died in prison and three others were granted new trials.

Of the remaining five before whom the electric chair now looms large the most interesting cases in the case of Warrick Charles. Governor Drake now has before him a petition asking for a stay of execution in the case of Charles and asserting that the Chinaman is innocent of the crime with which he is charged, and that his conviction was an injustice and that his execution would be a calamity.

Warrick Charles is one of the best known Chinamen in America. He is a man of superior education and has long been prominent in business circles and in public affairs. As a boy he was brought to America from China by his uncle. His youth was spent in New Orleans, where he secured a good common school education. From New Orleans he went to Omaha, where he took his scanty earnings, a lad of 16, and started in business for himself.

Ambitious to get ahead, active and sturdy, he continued to seek a higher education. While he was attending a business college in Omaha he met Mary Whiting, a young woman who afterward became his wife and the mother of his children.

From Omaha he went to New York, where he was successfully an agent for the Atchafon, Tunka and Santa Fe railroad, a dealer in stoves, laundry appliances and hardware and an interpreter in the court of general sessions, a floorwalker in a large and fashionable dry goods establishment, and a Chinese inspector under Secretary Carlisle in the second Cleveland administration.

While engaged in the last-named occupation Charles was arrested on the charge of conspiracy to betray government secrets, but was discharged. He was then Chinese inspector, but was suspended. He later worked for the Lexow investigation commission and came to Boston after having been attacked in New York.

Ever since he arrived every effort and influence have been brought to bear with the hope of effecting Warrick Charles' acquittal. When he was arrested a large sum of money was raised in New York to defray the expenses of his trial and efforts were made to secure his liberation on bail. Active work was undertaken all over the country by members of the Army and Navy Union, of which Warrick Charles, a New York policeman and son of the condemned man, is a member. General Charles W. Bartlett and other eminent counsel in Boston were employed to conduct the defense of Charles and they are still at work in the chair. So far as the other condemned Chinamen are concerned there appears to be but a very remote possibility that anything will intervene to save them from execution at the appointed time.

AUTO WAS WAITING NEAR COUNTY JAIL

When W. C. Fickles Was Released Through Efforts of Attorney And He Was Hurdled Across State Line.

Wayne C. Fickles, who was arrested on a civil warrant at the instance of Bryan Smith of the town of Newark and incarcerated in the county jail last Wednesday, pending his trial on a charge of securing about $600 on alleged false representations, was released the next morning and hurried across the state line in an automobile which his attorney, Louis Avery, had thoughtfully provided for the purpose. Request papers cannot reach him down at Shirland, Ill., as they are granted only in criminal actions, and he is safe from further imprisonment unless he ventures into Wisconsin again.

Attorney Avery insisted that his client be released on the ground that there had never been any legal service of the warrant, the deputy sheriff having acted on the mistaken supposition that, as in criminal actions, the mere reading of the document was sufficient. The complainant's attorney at first contended that a duplicate of the paper had been pressed on Fickles, but that he had refused to take it. But this contention was found to be untenable when the warrant itself, failed to show the officer's signature proving up service. Moreover, Mrs. Fickles corroborated her husband's declaration that there had been no attempt to serve the paper on him.

Whom, the attorney for Mr. Smith insisted that if proper service had not been had on Fickles at the outset the matter would at once be rectified by a second service at the jail. But Attorney Avery interposed a strenuous objection on this score as the law does not countenance service in such instances when a person is already under duress.

Sheriff Scholten, acting as judge, decided the issue of law in favor of Mr. Avery, and the attorney for the complainant afterward admitted privately that the decision was correct. Mr. Fickles was released without furnishing any bonds for his appearance in court at the time the civil suit is to be instituted and before the preliminary formalities for getting proper service on him could possibly be arranged, was being whizzed towards the frontiers of the Buckle state.

LONG-DISTANCE PHONE
SAVED MUCH TROUBLE

Had it not been for the long-distance telephone, traffic at the new yards would practically have been dead for several days during the absence of a telegraph operator at that point. Competent operators are hard to get and the company had great difficulty in securing a man when the former operator gave up his position. During the interval it was possible to order trains to and from the south over the phone, while Operator Stone at the station took care of trains to and from Danaboo and Fond du Lac. If the phone had failed during this time traffic would have been blocked. The arrival of Operator Frusher from Chicago this morning, however, has eliminated this difficulty.

Engineer Kauffman is on 538 and 595 today in place of Engineer Starritt, who is laying off on account of the illness of Mrs. Starritt.

GENERAL FOREMAN J. C. FOX
VISITED SHOPS YESTERDAY

General Foreman J. C. Fox, who since last March has been confined to his home, visited the roundhouse yesterday afternoon and exchanged greetings with the shop force. It is needless perhaps to say that he met with a hearty welcome from his employees, who in addition to respecting him for his profound knowledge of the technical details of his profession, hold him in highest esteem for his purely personal qualities. Their only regret is that they have been unable to work under his personal supervision continuously.

Switch-engine 1641, which for some time has presented a rather disreputable appearance from continuous service, was sent to the Milwaukee shops this morning to be overhauled. Engineer Callahan had the 1648, which was sent up from Ladd for service.

Engineer Fox and Fireman J. Roome are back on the Mineral Point passenger today after being relieved by the swing crew.

A position on the P. D. C. way-freight with a Milwaukee layover has been posted for application.

The first car-load of sugar beets arrived this morning and from now on sugar beets will claim a good share of the switchmen's time.

KNOW WHAT SAVES FUEL!

You don't have to be a heating engineer to know whether a boiler is good or bad. And it pays you to know.

Especially before you buy. It means dollars and dollars of fuel saving right from the start.

Enough a year or two to pay the difference between a poor boiler and a good one.

It is to help you know what saves fuel in a boiler for hot water or low pressure steam that we urge you to send for our free book, "Heating the Right Way." Send for it today! This book and our literature give you new light on the fuel question.

You have read a whole lot of advertisements about hot water and steam heat. Claims are made of "perfect heating," "fuel economy," etc. But others don't show you. We do. Send for book and see for yourself.

Capitol Boilers and Radiators

(Hot water and low pressure steam.)
Cost to heat 7-room house $275 to $325.

When you have once seen the simple heat-multiplying and fuel saving features of the Capitol you will know where to look for efficiency and economy.

You will want to know how much of the surface presented to the heat in water area. In Capitol Boilers all the surface around and above the firepot is water area. No cast iron plates between water areas to waste the heat.

You will notice how the water circulates. In the Capitol Solar a separate venturway, connecting the dome and drop sections, gives a direct independent downward circulation. The cooler descending water is not blocked by the hotter rising water. Thus perfect internal circulation is always maintained.

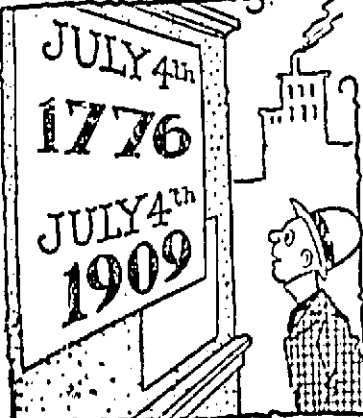

You will notice how deep the firepot is. Capitol firepots are unusually deep. They are corrugated, increasing the direct water heating surface. The corrugation also permits plenty of air circulation at the edge. This means complete combustion.

Capitol Boilers are doubly tested at the factory. They are all set up complete and thoroughly inspected before shipment.

Any fuel, including coke and the low grades of soft coal, can be used in Capitol Boilers.

These boilers are made in two types-the round and the square-the latter to meet the requirements of large residences, churches, office buildings, apartments, etc. Capitol Radiators are of beautiful design-arranged to give the largest radiating surface. Don't forget the free book. Write today.

A Case of Looking Before You Leap

Before you select any Commercial School you owe it to your future to investigate the equipment of the school, not only as regards the instructors, but in the matter of office appliances. No matter how efficient the instructors, they lose much of their value if the equipment is not up-to-date and efficient.

is proud of its teachers, and it is justly proud, too, of its equipment. A special effort has been made to provide the best office-appliances possible to obtain. We believe we owe our students the opportunity of securing an education that fits them for the work of the modern office.

We have installed the latest model Burroughs Adding and Listing Machine and our pupils are taught to use it. Only one school in ten has an adding machine. THEATRE

Will Be Given a Chance to Criticize "Three Weeks."

When Elinor Glyn addressed herself to the task of constructing a play out of her much-discussed novel, "Three Weeks," predictions of failure were many from those who had read the book and who declared the subjecting at once a motive and a palladium for her subsequent conduct. This is accomplished in a prologue. They follow the meeting of "The Lady" and "Paul" at Lucerne and their companionship there and in Venice, leading up to the final tragedy, some time later, in which both the queen and her ject unit for stage presentation. Elinor Glyn persevered, however, and a few months ago gave a copyright performance of her play in England, she herself appearing in the cast. In some respects this first draft of the play verified the fears of its prenatal critics. Since then, however, the entire work has been revised and so changed that when the play was given its first American presentation, it was much praised, not only as a remarkable dramatization of a remarkable book, but as a drama of compelling interest, good construction and lively action. Now the theatre-goers will have an opportunity to pass judgment upon the play, which comes to the Myers theatre, Tuesday, October 12. Unlike the novel, the play opens at Bardonia, showing the queen at home with her brute husband and pro-husband come to the end of their earthly destinies.

Actress Employed by Two Playhouses.

There is one young woman in Mort H. Singer's production of "The Prince of Tintin," which appears at the Myers theatre this afternoon and tonight who last season rejected in a monopoly of understudy. Lillian Pleasant is her name, and she understudied six different roles, and was employed at two playhouses, the Princess and the La Salle. Miss Pleasant began as a humble chorus girl several years ago. She gradually worked her way up to the head of the line, as they call it in musical comedy houses, and later was allowed to play small parts. Last season, on account of her versatility, she had been promoted to be general understudy, and she had her hands full with keeping the six important parts in her head and in keeping watch over the principals for whom she was substitute.

In the first place Miss Pleasant was understudy for Miss Georgia Calne, prima donna of the Princess. She was also substitute for Miss Alice Dovey, the sub-prima, Miss Pleasant was the prima donna at the La Salle when Miss Florence Holbrook was indisposed, and got the role of Eleanor Kent when she was out of the cast and also that of Carolyn Lilla. Miss Pleasant had the wardrobe for these six different parts, complete in every particular, hanging in her room at her hotel, and when she got notice, took a cab, hastened to her room and was soon in the spotlight.

One night the audience at the Princess was kept waiting some little time before the curtain went up, and the people would have been highly interested had they known the cause. It appears that Miss Lilla was taken sick and Miss Pleasant was called upon to play her part. She assumed the dress of the role and was just about to step on the stage when she was called to the Princess.

Miss Alice Dovey, who had been visiting in Milwaukee, had telegraphed that she had missed the train and would not be able to reach Chicago. A chorus girl was secured for the part at the La Salle and Miss Pleasant took a cab and hastened to her hotel to dress for the role of "Lola." The orchestra played a long overture that night, before the first curtain went up, and when it finally lifted and disclosed the familiar campus, Miss Pleasant was seen as the lively young college girl, with whom all the students are infatuated.

Old age was primarily the cause of her death, she having been ill about a month. Four children—Mary, Thomas and James Nelson of Footville and John Nelson of Brodhead—were left to mourn her loss. The Question of Woolens

Of all the essentials which bring about satisfaction in men's clothes, none should be more seriously studied and more carefully considered by you than the fabrics from which your clothes should be constructed. That homely old adage which says that "a silk purse cannot be made from a sow's ear" is no more true than the fact that GOOD CLOTHING cannot be made from POOR materials.

In consequence of this undisputed truth, it must be acknowledged that the danger of selecting "inferior materials" is one of the greatest obstacles confronting the average purchaser. His experience with that particular question is necessarily limited and circumscribed. What, then, must he do? To be perfectly frank, there is only ONE alternative which is practical. He must find a firm in whose integrity he can place perfect confidence.

We ask that confidence be placed in us, simply because we unreservedly guarantee the HIGH QUALITY AND THOROUGH RELIABILITY of every piece of material contained in our line.

In point of style, as well as in superiority of texture and weave, you will find just what you want in our line at the price you want to pay. There are over 400 patterns from which to choose and we will gladly display them at your request.

brains and skillful hands can produce.

The progress of the age and its demands are not always appreciated by people not familiar with the channels most affected. They little realize that every factory which keeps pace with the procession is constantly eliminating the old to the scrap heap, and installing the new.

The Gazette represents, in a modest way, this revolution, for while the paper has lived for half a century

or more, not a piece of machinery about the place is 10 years old. What is true of this little plant is true of all manufacturing plants, and fortunes are spent every year in keeping pace with the demands of progress.

This fact, by the way, is not always recognized by labor organizations, but it is true. More money goes into the scrap pile of all railroads and factories, every decade, than is paid for dividends, and the new and more perfect machinery, which takes the place of the old, furnishes employment to a great army of American workmen.

These mechanical improvements include all sorts of safety devices for protection of life and prevention of accidents, and laws are constantly being enacted compelling their use; yet

the long list of casualties is of daily occurrence, and but few of them are charged to imperfect equipment.

The spreading of a rail may occasionally ditch a train, but the forgetting of orders is of more frequent occurrence. The wheel-toaster, with his torch and hammer, finds that the metal rings true, and that the boxes are not overheated, but no way has yet been discovered to test the brain of the conductor or engineer, nor to insure the perfect working of all the human wheels on whom the safety of the train depends.

Out in the little wayside station, on the plains, is an operator, consumed with loneliness and weary with monotony. Yet his presence in an emergency, which may come at any moment, is of supreme importance.

When the limited thunders by and rushes on into the night he rushes to the keyboard, but his nervous hand refuses to net, for orders have been forgotten and wreckage will result.

Thus it is in the great drama of everyday life. Not the imperfect machine but the imperfect man is responsible for most of the tragedies.

The gun don't discharge itself. It is equipped with all the safety apppliances to render it harmless, but after the accident the common plea is, "I didn't know it was loaded." And so all down the long list of casualties, human frailty is largely responsible.

The automobile, on which money is so freely spent in advertising, is favored with a great deal of free publicity because of daily accidents,

which are heralded over the country.

Yet this new road-wagon was only responsible for 20 per cent of the vehicle casualties recorded during the past twelve months.

The only wonder is that a road-engine capable of 50 miles an hour in the hands of novices isn't in the ditch half the time. The average machine comes as near being "fool proof" as anything yet invented.

The tragedies of life are not confined to startling accidents, and many of them are not recorded. The silent sound on the hill frequently marks

the resting-place of a life which went out prematurely through neglect or abuse.

There are homes all over the land where this class of tragedies are being enacted. Mothers whose hearts are being broken, fathers whose lives are being shortened, and children whose future is being ruined, because somebody is falling in love and duty.

The accident which results from carelessness is the fault of the brain,

but the tragedy of the home is not an accident. It involves the heart.

The mangle of life, and there is absolutely no excuse.

The world will be better when more hearts are right, and when love and charity, patience and forbearance,

religion supreme, driving out selfishness and envy, and the long list of weaknesses which destroy life and happiness.

The world has reached an era where it no longer tolerates the imperfect.

In any of the appliances for work, and accepts as a matter of course and without applause the best that is furnished.

active not alone in making history,

but in remaking it as well. Or possibly, being such hospitable souls,

they made all the necessary preparations to entertain their pilgrim fathers when the latter hit Plymouth

Rock.

No One Sees It Then.

The Madison Democrat says: The intensity with which Chicago is carrying on its anti-smoke fight is almost amusing to us "country people."

Down there the papers are printing pictures of the rising sun through a pail of smoke. Most of us always thought the sun rose only on Sundays in Chicago, when most of the factories are closed down.

All Ward-Healers.

The Rockford Register-Gazette:

The government has not had as good a response as was desired to the call for good men competent to handle the census work. The market for competent men is getting to be rather stagnant, with business

into greater activity than ever in one day after another. The suggestion

now is that the census bureau may have to enlist students from the colleges, which would give vacation work to a fine body of young fellows.

Frank Admission.

The Rockford Register says that up at Duluth a policeman preached the funeral sermon for his friend, a bartender. Both were unbelievers, but respected citizens and the officer in his words of sorrow held out no hope of a hereafter. It may be said that

Rockford policemen are also in doubt as to the hereafter of local drink juglers but they aren't wasting any tears.

Wisconsin to take legal steps against the collection of the advance of ten dollars in the fees will excite little interest in the state. There is ground for the charging of fees against non-residents who pay no Wisconsin taxes, and their cases are not in the same class with those of residents who have with reason been protesting against the fee system. The fees for resident students should be abolished.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

ALL the "it might have been" of existence, I truly think the clever retort thought of too late, is the most exasperating.

A very original woman suggested to me yesterday a way of utilizing these maddeningly brilliant after-thoughts and thus taking the sting out of their tardiness.

Maybe you would like to hear what it was even if you don't care to follow it out.

"I'm going to keep a memorandum of all the clever things I thought of too late," she said, "and then some day I'm going to write a book and reproduce all the situations that called for them and get them all in. It will be a load off my mind."

Reminds me rather of having a hammock given you and building a piazza to hang it on. But it would be fun, wouldn't it?

Real wisdom is never too proud to learn from the humblest source and never too old to learn from any one or anything.

I thought of this the other day when a lady over sixty years old told me a lesson she had learned.

Her heart trouble made many of the steep hills in her neighborhood impossible for her until she took a lesson in climbing from the horse.

Now she goes up zigzag and no hill is beyond her.

If you live to learn all your life, towards the end of it you may begin to learn to live.

When the boy of yesterday grew up into the man of today he apparently lost something on the road.

No, I don't mean his youth or his innocence or anything so romantic as that.

Simply his pocket-knife.

The boys I used to know carried pocket-knives, but of the men that I know now not one in ten seems to have one.

They used to tell me that a kles without a mustache was like an egg without salt and I used to very much disagree, but I do think that a set of trouser pockets without that masculine flavoring, a pocket-knife, could be compared to that unsalted egg.

Maybe, it's a bit early to suggest Christmas presents, but if father, brother, uncle, cousin, or "gentleman friend" hasn't got one, wouldn't it be a good idea to jot down "pocket-knife" against December 25th?

Of Cachemire De Sole

A pretty reception gown of cachemire de sole in the new shade of raisin accompanies this. The bodice and skirt are separate, although they have the opposite effect, the bib portion of the bodice being apparently part of the skirt. The latter is an especially pretty model. The shaped band which outlines the place of gulfuro, around the shoulders, is of the cachemire de sole, and decorated with buttons. A gulfuro of tucked tulle in the same shade as the gown and gulfuro lace is worn with this. Silk embroidery in self-tone appears on bib and sleeves. A plectro hat nearly covered with plumage in a shade to match the gown is worn with this costume.

INDICT MABRAY AND 89 OTHERS

Grand Jury Bring in Indictments Charging Promoting Fake Races.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 9.—The federal grand jury, which convened here two weeks ago, have reported indictments against J. C. Mabray and 89 others, alleged to have been his confederates in the promotion of fake races, prize fights and other sporting events.

The indictments are practically identical with those returned September 22 at Council Bluffs against the same persons. Quite a number of the men named have not yet been arrested and for that reason the list is not made public at this time.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 9.—Jack Carroll, the wrestling promoter, for a long time Frank Gotch's manager; Bert Warner of Minneapolis, a middleweight wrestler; and Winn Harris of Spokane, were arrested at Curlew, Wash., as members of the Mabray gang of wrestling and footrace swindlers recently indicted at Omaha and Council Bluffs.

FOUR DIE IN A NASHVILLE FIRE

CAUGHT WHILE ASLEEP IN FLAMES WHICH DESTROY HOME.

TWO NEGROES ARE ARRESTED

Suspected of Having Started the Fire—Several Persons Have Narrow Escapes from Flames—Victims Horribly Disfigured.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 9.—In a fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin, which destroyed a brick residence in Jefferson street, four persons were burned to death, while several others had narrow escapes from the flames.

Two negroes were arrested on suspicion in connection with the origin of the fire.

The fire broke out at 721-723 Jefferson street while the inmates were asleep.

So great a headway had the fire gained when discovered and so intense was the excitement caused by the horrified screams of women and the appeals for help of those in danger, that no organized attempt at rescue was made for some minutes after the four fire companies had arrived on the scene.

Four Lose Their Lives.

Finally a long stepladder was placed against the windows of an apartment occupied by W. H. Mustaine, assistant city ticket agent of the Louisville & Nashville railroad. With smoke swirling about them Mr. Mustaine, his wife and two children were assisted out of the windows of their home. It was then discovered that three of the members of the Mustaine family had not been accounted for. Desperate efforts to enter their apartment were frustrated by the flames bursting from the windows.

All three were burned or suffocated to death, and with them perished Miss Rachel Marleson, who lived in the same apartment. Two of the victims in this apartment were burned so that their features were hardly recognizable.

The negroes arrested were Jim Butler and George Harrison, who have been hanging about the building and who are known to have had trouble with J. A. Thas, a grocer who occupied the ground floor, are accused of knowing something of the origin of the fire.

GIRL IN MALE ATTIRE CAUGHT

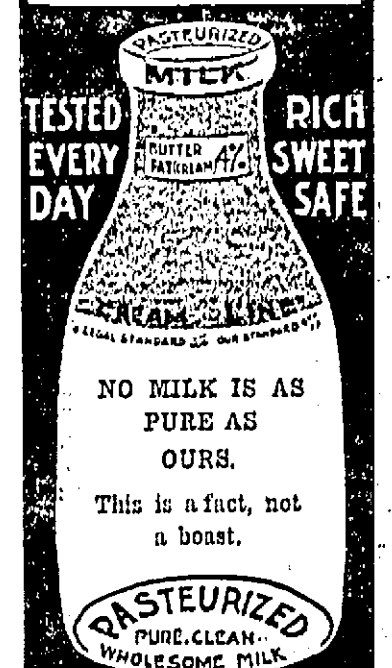

Masquerading as Boy for Three Years, She Performed Man's Work.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 9.—After masquerading as a boy for three years, playing boy's games, working in a local livery stable, driving a grocer's team and hustling heavy boxes and express packages, heavy enough for a strong young man, Harry Roberts has confessed to the police "he" is a girl and that "his" name is Lillian Hoffman, step-daughter of Gottlieb Meiers, 2614 East Seventy-third street. Three years ago the girl, then only 17, tired of her home. She ran away, donned boy's clothing and went out into the world to work as a man. She secured work. In the time that has elapsed the girl has worked in a livery stable, cleaning horses, driven grocers' carts and even acted as a helper to a carpenter and delivered ice. Her identity became known a short time ago when she was arrested while in the employ of D. Martin, a grocer, 8507 Detroit avenue, on a small charge. Sentence was suspended, but the police looked further into Roberts' career. They found no serious acts other than the one, but they discovered that the boy, who up to a few days ago was back working in a livery stable, was a girl. The young woman made a confession and today her step-father brought her some clothes—girl's clothes. The parent accuses the child's strange bent as being due to a love for horses. The girl says she had always wanted to be a boy.

All the wheels of the 1939 football machine were set in motion this afternoon when practically every eleven in the country will be engaged in some sort of a gridiron struggle. In many cases the games were the second battle of the season, quite a number of university and college teams having gone through their initial contests last Saturday.

Although a game of no significance

so far as the western championship game, which opened the season at Madison, was closely watched by graduates and friends of the state institution throughout the west, primarily because it is the first struggle in which the Badgers have had a hand

this season as indicated by the way

the students are backing the team and by the large number of candidates who are working for places in its lineup.

It is hardly likely that Coach Barry will use anything except straight forward against Coach Cutler's Apple-tonians, and for that reason a low score is expected. Nevertheless, some of the dopsters will have an interesting time comparing the scores of the Minnesota-Lawrence game in which the Gophers showed their lighter opponents beneath a 41 to 0 score. Individually, the Badger team looks the most formidable of years. Whether or not they will develop into the machine that Coach Barry is striving for is a question that will not be answered

until the season is over.

Two other battles that will have some bearing on the strength of the Badgers' opponents for the title will be those between Chicago and Indiana at Chicago and the Ames game at Minneapolis. In Jimmy Sheldon's

lineup the Bruins will have a much tougher opponent than was the case last Saturday when Purdue was the victim. The Hoosiers have always fought Chicago tooth and nail and although the Bruins should have little trouble in winning, it is more than likely that Stagg will be forced to show his hand somewhat. Ames has no terrors for the Gophers, who are already preparing for a slaughter.

fifteen years will now have to pay rates according to attained age. J. L.

officers of the company to ascertain schedule rates for local policy holders, and as soon as he hears from them, some action will be taken by Baraka accepted all these inventions without doubting their veracity. In her eyes Logothetis was a great man, something like a king, and vast more than a Tartar chieftain. He could send men to the ends of the earth if he chose. Now that he was sure of where Kralinsky was, he could no doubt have him seized secretly and brought to her, if she desired it earnestly of him. But she did not wish to see the man, free or a prisoner, till she had her beautiful new clothes. Then he should look upon her, and judge whether he had done well to do to death by her own people and her body left to the future that had waited so long on a jutting point of rock over her head three years ago.

It was a dreary and sense-compelling life that she led on the yacht, surrounded with every luxury she had ever heard of, and constantly waited on by the only clever man she had ever really talked with, excepting the old Persian merchant in Stamboul. The vision of the golden-bearded giant who had left her to her fate after treating her with stony indifference was still before her, but the reality was nearer in the shape of a visible "giant" who could do anything he chose, who caused her to be treated like a queen, and who was undeniably handsome.

She wondered whether he had a wife. Judging marriage from her point of view, there probably had been one put away in that beautiful house in Paris. He was an oriental, she told herself, and he would not parade his wife as the Persians did. But she was one, too, and she considered that it would be an insult to ask him about such things. Spino knew, no doubt, but she could not detain herself to inquire of a servant. Perhaps Gula had found out already, for the girl had a way of finding out whatever she wanted to know, apparently by explaining things to the second mate. Possibly Gula could be made to tell what she had learned without being directly questioned. But after all, Baraka decided that it did not matter, since she meant to marry the fair-haired man as soon as she had her pretty clothes. Yet she became conscious that if he had not existed, she would think it very satisfactory to marry the great man who could do anything he liked, though if he had a wife already, as she probably had, she would refuse to be the second in his house. The Koran allowed a man four, it was said, but the idea was hateful to her, and moreover the Persian merchant's wife had told her that it was old-fashioned to have more than one, mainly because living had grown so expensive.

Logothetis sat beside her for hours under the awnings, talking or not, as she chose, and always reading when she was silent, though he often looked up to see if she wanted anything. He told her when they left Naples that he would show her beautiful islands and other sights, and the great fire-mountains of the south. Itina and Stromboli, which she had heard of on her voyage to Marseilles, but had not seen because the steamer had passed them at night. The fire-mountain at Naples had been quiet, only sending out thin wreaths of smoke, which Baraka insisted came from fires made by shepherds.

"Moreover," she said, as they watched Vesuvius receding when they left Naples, "your mountains are not mountains, but anti-hills, and I do not care for them. But your sea has the colors of many sherbets, rose-lark and violet, and lemon and orange, and sometimes even of pale yellow peach-herbert, which is good. Let me always see the sea till the fine dresses are ready to be tried on."

"This sea," answered Logothetis, "is always most beautiful near land and amongst islands, and the big fire-mountain of Sicily looks as tall as Kaabek, because it rises from the water's edge to the sky."

"Then take me to it, and I will tell a good ruby. A king may receive a good ruby as a gift and not despise it. Why do you laugh at me? There came two German merchants to me in Paris to see my rubies, and when they had looked, they bought a good one, but not better than the one I would give you, and Spino heard them say to each other in their own language that it was for their king, for Spino understands all tongues. Then do you think that their king would not have been glad if I had given him the ruby as a gift? You cannot mock Baraka. Baraka knows what rubies are worth, and has some still.

"I do not mock you," Logothetis answered, with perfect gravity. "I laugh at my own thoughts. I said in my heart: 'If Baraka asks me for a husband, what will she say if I answer, 'Behold, I am the man, if you are satisfied?' This was my thought."

She was appressed at once, for she saw nothing extraordinary in his suggestion. She looked at him quietly and smiled, for she saw her chance. "It is emptiness," she said. "I will have a man who has no other wife."

"Practically," Logothetis answered, smiling, "I never had one."

"Now you are indeed mocking me!" she said, bending her sharp-drawn eyebrows.

"No. Every one knows it who knows me. In Europe, men do not always marry very young. It is not a fixed custom."

Freight Crashes Into Construction Train—Most of Victims Are Mexican Laborers—Believed That Some of Injured Will Die.

Topoka, Kan., Oct. 9.—In a collision between a Santa Fe freight and a work train near here, 17 persons were killed and ten seriously hurt. Among the dead are 11 Mexicans.

The dead:
Charles Gray, North Topoka, Kan.
Stephen Barnes, North Topoka.
Jesse Tripp, Valley Falls, Kan.
Thomas Laird, Nortonville, Kan.
All the foregoing were section men.
E. L. Bolte, brakeman, Argentine, Kansas.
Joe Clemens, brakeman, Emporia, Kansas.

Injured All Mexicans.
The injured are all Mexicans and are at the Atchison, Topoka and Santa Fe hospital. It is believed some of them are fatally injured.

The work train was backing into Topoka with 50 Mexicans riding on the flat cars. As the train was rounding a curve the north-bound freight crashed into it.

Engineer Edward Ash and Fireman Joseph Corey, on the freight train, jumped as soon as the air brakes could be set. The Mexicans were not aware of the danger until the engine-men and trainmen jumped and then it was too late for many of them.

The engine on the freight ran over the four flat cars comprising the work train and almost a score of men were pinned down and it was several hours before they were extricated.

It is said the wreck was caused by the crew of the work train disregarding orders.

ACKNOWLEDGES SMUGGLING.
American in Manila Pleads Guilty—Testifies Against Accomplices.

Manila, Oct. 9.—Louis Grant, a prominent American resident of this city, charged with complicity in extensive opium smuggling schemes discovered some weeks ago, entered a plea of guilty when the case was called. He then took the stand as a witness for the prosecution. Grant said that William Kennedy and a Chinese banker jointly charged with himself, had arranged the plan, and that he had not been informed of it until after a shipment of mining machinery had been consigned to him in which the opium was concealed.

Grant said that Kennedy offered him $5,000 to allow this opium to land, and he admitted that he had accepted the offer. He claimed, however, that he had no other part in the plan.

Grant's evidence was a part of the testimony in the trial of Kennedy which is now in progress.

No. 21—The Great Thirst
The man who can drink or let it alone is too numerous to mention. In the most cases he really has faith in his claim, and he is generally going to let out the old booze before long—some fine day when the sign is right. So long as this man is in a position to get a drink whenever he wants one, he doesn't realize that his thirst is base. It is only when he is marooned in some dry Tortuga, remote from the helpful demijohn, that the truth comes home to him that he is merely an unimportant suburb to his thirst. Recently a man who could drink or let it alone found himself pinned up for several days in a prohibition town, the trains being all out of commission on account of floods. His private supply of pink demitasse soon ran out, and he began buying and drinking everything that was believed to contain alcohol. He poured down all sorts of refreshing compounds, such as hair restorers, writing fluids and sprays, etc., and was finally carried off to jail. In a delicious condition, after drinking six bottles of a liquid tooth polish, which acted like soapuds in his works, and three fat policemen had to sit on him all night to hold him down. When he got out of jail, subdued and chastened, he said that the time had come to let it alone. But he was back on the booze route next day. He is destined to die with his head on cracked ice one of these days; and may there be no mourning of the barkeepers when he puts out to sea.

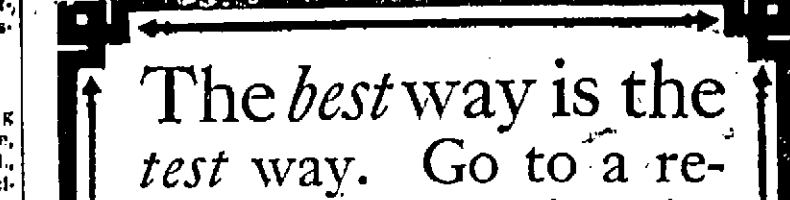

Remedies are Needed
Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

ONE WITNESS WILL TESTIFY IN LIBEL CASE

He Will Appear in Hearing in Connection with the Panama Canal Purchase Controversy.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 9.—The hearing of the case of Dehaven Smith and Charles H. Williams, proprietors of the Indianapolis News, charged with having committed criminal libel in connection with the Panama canal purchase controversy, will begin Monday. A subpoena for Irving C. Santer, a secret agent of the department of justice, at Washington, D. C., has been issued to appear here at that time.

Charles W. Miller, United States attorney for this district, said that he did not know who Santer was, and that he had mailed a subpoena at the request of Stuart McNamara, special attorney of the department of justice, in charge of the proceedings against the publishers of the Indianapolis News and similar proceedings in New York city against the publishers of the New York World.

Mr. Miller said that so far as he was advised, Santer, or Santer, was the only witness that would be subpoenaed. He had not been informed, he added, that William Nelson Cromwell, Frank H. Hitchcock, or representatives of the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co. had arranged with the department of justice to come to Indianapolis to testify without the formality of a subpoena. He did not know, he said, when Mr. McNamara would arrive or whether or not other representatives of the government would come here with him.

Mr. McNamara had stated to Judge Anderson of the United States court of this district that he probably would ask Mr. Hitchcock, Norman E. Mack, chairman of the Democratic national committee; certain members of the firm of Morgan & Co., and others to testify in the Panama canal matter.

EXPLORER COOK HEADS IMPRESSIVE PAGEANT

Given Most Enthusiastic Greeting Since He Left Copenhagen—Jackets in Parade.

St. Louis, Oct. 9.—The greeting given Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the Arctic explorer, as he headed the most impressive of the Centennial week pageants, which was military, historical and educational in character, was declared to have been the most enthusiastic since he left Copenhagen. Thousands of spectators lined the route of the parade and the explorer was hailed with great cheering from start to finish.

Dr. Cook rode in the Adolphus Ruesch landau, drawn by four horses and surrounded by mounted police, who kept the crowds from capturing the explorer.

Another popular feature of the parade was the appearance of the officers and men of the United States torpedo flotilla. The "Jackets" were received with deafening cheers all along the line of march.

Troops from the regular army recruiting station at Jefferson barracks, state militia, thousands of school children and college students and floats depicting the historical happenings of St. Louis and vicinity from frontier days to the Louisiana purchase expedition completed the pageant.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, modestly and unassumingly told 10,000 Chicagoans last night, gathered to hear him in the Coliseum, of his trip of hardship, peril and discovery to the far north.

Many times during the recital of the explorer the great audience broke into cheers which continued for several minutes.

When he completed his address a rush which for several minutes made possible danger to women and children imminent, was made by men in the audience to grasp the explorer's hand. Smilingly he reached down from the stage and grasped as many hands as he could, and it was a good, strong, manly grip he gave. The world's press increased so rapidly that police reserves were called into the building and Dr. Cook, between a double file of officers, was escorted to his automobile.

160 Acres of Land and $2000 Worth of Improvements all Paid for by Last Years Crop in Sunny Alberta

Such was the experience of J. A. Kearney of Strathmore. Mr. Kearney says: "Last year my main crop consisted of 55 acres of winter wheat which went 50 bus, to the acre, a gross return of $75 per acre or $4125 from that field. My other crops turned out equally well and paid for my other improvements."

When people investigate such facts as these they usually want to go to this great Sunny Southern Alberta country to see for themselves. Farmers are getting rich there, while farmers here hardly get an existence. Notice my free offer of books to the right. Send for them.

A Selling Campaign Should Be Started Right

every detail should be given thoughtful consideration and planned before a dollar is invested in the purchase of advertising space. Conscientious advice and assistance should be obtained from people who are capable of thoroughly analyzing your selling problems and who will give personal attention to your particular case. It's only the man in the pilot house who has the outlook and the data to steer the ship. The kind of advertising that makes every dollar spent an investment instead of an expense is the kind that has a perfect selling plan back of it. If your product has merit there is a way to sell it. If newspaper advertising is what you need we will be glad to work with you. If not, we will tell you so at once.
